

Profiles of Hope Campaign Joins Dr. Drew In “Being Charlie” Screening

The Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health (LACDMH) partnered with Dr. Drew Pinsky, host of the late night call-in show “Loveline” for over thirty years on KROQ, 106.7 FM, to view the anti-stigma series of vignettes entitled “Profiles of Hope” and the new Rob Reiner film “Being Charlie” at the Real D Screening room in Beverly Hills on May 2, 2016. Dr. Drew talked about his own struggles with panic attacks and health issues and acknowledged Profiles of Hope participants, Michelle Enfield and Suzanne Whang, with scrolls from all five LA County Board Supervisors.

Based on the real life experiences of Rob Reiner’s son Nick’s struggle with addiction, co-written with Matt Elisofo, the movie “Being Charlie” takes us along on an 18 year-old’s travels through treatment, relapse and recovery. The movie is an honest portrayal of what group homes and friends and family can and cannot provide. It opens to the public this Friday.

Robin Kay, Patricia Russell, Dennis Murata check-in with for the movie screening.

Dr. Drew talks to the audience about the movie.
